Important Information - Your initials below indicates you have read and understand the following:

Federal student loans are real loans, just like car loans or mortgages. You must repay a student loan even if your financial circumstances become difficult. Your student loans cannot be canceled because you didn't get the education or job you expected, or because you didn't complete your education (unless you couldn't complete your education because your school closed).

Borrowing Federal student loans from a community college will reduce the amount of loan eligibility available to you once you transfer to a 4-year institution. Solano Community College advises that you save your loan eligibility. If not, you may experience difficulty affording the cost of education once you transfer to a 4-year institution.

NEVER ignore delinquency or default notices from your loan servicer. If you don't make your monthly loan payments, you will become delinquent on your student loan and risk going into default. Contact your servicer immediately if you are having trouble making payments or won't be able to pay on time. Loan servicers report all delinquencies of at least 90 days to the three major credit bureaus. A negative credit rating may make it difficult for you to borrow money to buy a car or a house and you will be charged much higher interest rates.
