EXHIBIT "A"
DESCRIPTION OF SERVICES TO BE PERFORMED BY CONSULTANT

The District is seeking preparation of a Geotechnical Engineering and Geologic Hazards Investigation Report for the new Library/Learning Resource Center Project on the Fairfield Campus. This project consists of design and construction of a new 59,252 GSF two story building to replace the existing B100 Library Building. Construction type is not yet known but may range from steel frame to tilt-up concrete. It is likely the building will have spread footings and concrete slab on grade. The project also includes demolition of five old portable buildings (8,643 GSF) and site restoration, and demolition of the old B100 Library (49,600 GSF) and construction of new site improvements in that area.

This project is funded by Measure Q bond funds and State Facilities bond funds. Due to project schedule constraints related to the State funding, the specific site of the new building will be confirmed concurrent with preparation of the Geotechnical Report. Thus the preliminary borings are to be taken over a larger area than the final site of the building footprint. Consultants shall include in their proposal four cone penetration tests (CPT's) and four (4) borings. Consultant shall also include a fee allowance for an additional four (4) borings, should it be determined additional borings are desired by the District. See attached maps for potential site area.

Project Schedule: Schematic Design Documents are anticipated to begin in November 2017 and complete by the end of January 2018. Design development documents are scheduled to be completed by April 2018. Construction is anticipated to begin in the fall of 2019.

The consultant shall provide sufficient information to allow for design of the new Library/Learning Resource Center for the District. The scope of work shall include review of the site, review of USGS topographic maps, historical aerial photographs and available groundwater information, review of geologic maps and fault maps, review of seismic activity within 100 kilometers of the site, perform subsurface explorations, including borings for soil samples of appropriate quantity and depth for the proposed building, collect bulk samples of near-surface soils from the potential building pad areas, perform laboratory testing of selected soil samples, engineering analysis, and prepare a draft and final report.

The soil investigation and testing program shall be sufficient in scope to develop the foundation design criteria and define any foundation and earth stability problems which may occur. Recommendations within the report shall be complete and comprehensive, relating all factors influencing the design, construction, and performance of the foundation system and shall include recommended foundation options to allow for integrated value engineering considerations in conjunction with the superstructure construction. The report shall include recommendations for mediating soil stability, soil properties, water related problems, etc. and shall satisfy the requirements of CGS Note 48 in addition to the following:

- Seismic Parameters:
 - At a minimum, provide seismic design parameters as required by ASCE 7-10 as modified by the 2013 CBC. Values shall address any local geologic features (such as nearby faults, etc.) as required.

- Grading Requirements:
 - Fill/Subgrade compaction requirements for native soil or imported fill for building pad, pavement, sidewalk/exterior flatwork, trench backfill, all other structural and landscape, etc. Specify depth below finish subgrade, soil types and lab requirements.
 - Over-excavation depth, scarification depth, compaction lift depth, minimum compaction percentage, moisture range, and any special requirements to achieve compaction.

- Foundation system recommendations (eg: shallow spread footing, deep foundations such as drilled piers, etc.):
 - Minimum width – continuous and isolated.
 - Minimum depth below grade – continuous and isolated.
 - Maximum allowable soil bearing pressure (Dead + Live) and increase for wind/seismic – specify if value varies with depth of footing.
 - Maximum allowable soil bearing pressure for imported fill if different from above – specify if value varies with depth of footing.
 - Allowable passive pressure (FS = 1.5 or recommended) and allowable coefficient of sliding friction (FS = 1.5 or recommended) and specify criteria for combining passive pressure and friction.
 - Allowable skin friction for shallow foundations for uplift if applicable.
 - Lateral bearing pressures for embedded posts and pole footings (for use in CBC section 1807.3).
 - Estimated total and differential settlement, both short term and long term.
 - Tie beam recommendations, if required.
 - Deep foundation load capacities for seismic load cases, non-seismic load cases, bearing, uplift, with recommend depth, and sizes.
 - Deep foundations shall include “P-Y” curves for “fixed-head” and “pinned-head” conditions. Lateral displacements at the top of these systems shall be ½”, ¾” and 1”.
 - Modulus of subgrade reaction for use in elastic foundation analysis.
 - Modulus of subgrade reaction for slab on grade.

- Design Criteria:
 - Slab on grade recommendations including sub-base recommendations.
 - Design criteria for temporary or permanent bracing of excavation, including slope angles and treatment necessary to provide stable slopes for excavations.
 - Pipes and Trench Excavation Requirements:
 - Pipes parallel to footing:
 - Minimum distance from footing.
 - Plane of interference from footing (such as 1:1 from bottom of footing).
 - Pipes perpendicular to footing:
 - Recommendations for pipes below footing. Encasement in lean fill, etc.
 - Minimum depth required before lean fill is not required?

- Site Work:
 - Asphaltic concrete pavement sections recommendations – base and pavement.
 - Portland cement concrete pavement sections recommendations.

- Retaining Walls:
 - Equivalent lateral pressures for unrestrained and restrained wall conditions, including criteria for determining whether a wall should be considered restrained.
 - Lateral pressures on basement and retaining walls due to earthquake motions.
 - Surcharge loading – including effects of adjacent structures/foundation if any.
 - Drainage requirements.
 - Acceptable alternative systems (ex: Geogrid, shotcrete w/ rock anchors).

Additional Services

In additional to the base services above please provide a price for each of the items below:

- Review plans and specifications during the design phase to confirm that recommendations have been properly interpreted.
- Once excavation has been commenced, four (4) site visits to ascertain whether conditions actually encountered are the same as those anticipated in investigation/soil report, and whether recommendations have been properly implemented.

Schedule

Time is of the essence to complete the soils investigation and geotechnical analysis and report so that it may inform the design team's work.

- Start of Work/Project Kick-off Meeting: 1:00pm Monday, October 30, 2017
- Preliminary Borings: By Tuesday, November 21, 2017
- Submittal of Draft Report: By Tuesday, December 12, 2017
- Submittal of Final Report: By Tuesday, January 16, 2018
