The proposals will then go to FABPAC on February 15, 2011, and the timeline will be back in line with the proposal calendar. Thanks to Donna Vessels’ hard work, MyGroups has been updated; and, all of the PERT information is there. Jeff advised that PERT is now under the leadership of EVP Arturo Reyes, and they will be making changes to the PERT membership to expand the faculty voice on the PERT and delete some administrators because of the recent reorganization.

As a way of creating a harmonious report, they will have the steering committee read through the report once each month and provide feedback to be able to address problems and have many eyes looking at the document. The intent is to look at drafts as early as possible and as often as possible in order to be able to create a nice final report. It is hoped that the Academic Senate will receive the final draft at their last meeting in May. Minority Coalition:  Karen McCord advised that the Minority Coalition has not met since the last SGC meeting; however, they have asked to join with the Ethnics Study Program to add strength to that program. She also mentioned that a Humanities professor is concerned with the inconsistencies regarding English with regard to when you can take the test. There is a disproportionate number of students that pass English 1 but cannot take the test for two years. This is covered by a Department policy on this – not an SCC policy.

Human Resources:  Karen Ulrich advised that, on January 29, 2011, the California Community Colleges is hosting a job fair in San Francisco. Shanna Ballard will be representing SCC, and another representative from SCC is needed; so, if anyone would like to participate, they should let Karen Ulrich know. Also, there will be mandatory sexual harassment training for all managers in January, 2011. Through our insurance carrier, Keenan and Associates, they are putting together a sexual harassment training for classified and faculty as well. Regarding the current open positions, the HR Department will be putting them all out at once.

He has been speaking with Peter Bostic to have gifts to give out for recruitment. There are six faculty positions to be filled. Also, the payroll memos for faculty are creating a lot of workload, so they have tried to meet with the faculty association to streamline the process. The current draft of the Academic Calendar was distributed.

Administrative & Business Services:  Roy Stutzman advised that he met with the independent auditors for their exit conference. There was a list of 37 open items to work on, and they are working diligently to whittle that down.
